

Press Release*COMPLAINT FILED AGAINST WALGREENS AND WALGREENS BOOTS ALLIANCE FOR GENERIC PRESCRIPTION DRUG OVERCHARGES

March 24, 2017.

On March 23, 2017 Tusa P.C. and its co-counsel filed a proposed class action on behalf of customers, and their insurance providers, who purchased certain generic prescription drugs purchased from Walgreen Co. (“Walgreens”). Walgreens is a subsidiary of the Walgreens Boots Alliance (NASDAQ: WBA).

The lawsuit alleges that Walgreens over-charges insured consumers and their health insurers for generic prescription drugs that were included in the Walgreens “Prescription Savings Club” (PSC) program. Even though Walgreens is required to seek payment from insured consumers based on the “usual and customary” price it charges for generic drugs, Walgreens routinely sought payment based on higher prices. In some cases, insured consumers paid co-payments in amounts higher than the full cost of generic drugs included in the Walgreens PSC program. A Medicare Part D consumer represented by Tusa P.C. claims to have overpaid for her Walgreens prescriptions on multiple occasions.

“Walgreens is one of the largest pharmacies in the United States and should not be taking advantage of its customers, including those with Medicare Part D insurance plans,” believes Joseph Tusa, co-counsel for the plaintiffs and the principal attorney at Tusa P.C. “We brought this case to stop these practices and to recover the overcharges for our clients and others harmed by Walgreens’ conduct.”
